Employee Handbook — Sales & Support Procedures

This handbook section covers day-to-day procedures for sales and support staff floor or handling phone and chat support. It complements, but does not replace, t onboarding manual.

1. Customer Lookup

Staff should assist customers with locating albums by Artist name, Genre, or Track title using the in-store lookup terminal, which queries the same Customer, Track, Album, and Artist tables used by the online store. Staff must never read out a customer's full billing Address or Phone number aloud in a public area of the store.

2. Refund Authorization

No employee may process a refund without a valid InvoiceId reference pulled up on the terminal. Any exception to this rule — for example, a customer who has lost their receipt but insists the purchase happened — requires sign-off from a shift supervisor and must be logged in the daily exceptions report before the shift ends.

3. New Employee Onboarding

New Employee records are created with a ReportsTo value pointing to their assigned supervisor's EmployeeId. New hires complete a two-week onboarding period covering the point-of-sale system, this returns policy, and basic customer service standards before being scheduled for an unsupervised shift.

4. Handling Playlist and Recommendation Requests

Customers frequently ask staff to recommend a Playlist or a Track based on a Genre they already enjoy. Staff should use the in-store terminal's playlist browser rather than personal opinion alone, since it reflects what is actually available for purchase in that Genre and MediaType combination.

5. Escalation Path

Any situation staff are unsure how to resolve — a suspected fraudulent Invoice, an angry customer, or a system outage — should be escalated immediately to the shift supervisor on duty rather than resolved informally. Escalations are recorded in the daily exceptions report alongside refund exceptions.
